*Use this guide to find a specific journal. If you would like to browse journals in a certain subject area, please use BrowZine. For more information on this tool, click here.

Under the default ‘Research’ tab of the Library website, click on the ‘Journals, Books and Databases’ link:

1. Select ‘Journals Only’
2. Use the drop-down menu to select the method in which you would like to search.
   If you do not know the exact title of the journal, use ‘Title contains all words’
3. Enter the title or partial title
4. Click the ‘Search’ button

On the results page, you will see a link to the database(s) that index the journal (if we have it in our collection!), and the dates of coverage:
Based on the dates of coverage, click on the link to the database. You can then search for specific journal issues by date. Depending upon the database, there may be additional ways to browse or search within the journal. The journal page of the databases may differ. A couple of screenshots from our example are shown below. One is from the database Proquest, the other from Sage:
